The supplementary problems and in-class assignment will require students to use techniques learned in class to analyze market data. They will be asked to use this data to estimate volatility employing techniques from section 8.5. This will in turn be used to estimate the Black-Scholes Option cost, and its derivatives. This data will then be studied and interpreted.